the Enterprise bankers, Ben B. Henderson, the other day. He said, "You can't count on a crop until you sell it and get the money in the bank". This is certainly true. I am sure that farmers worry a great deal about dry weather just as we are greatly concerned now about the lack of rainfall. In fact, this is uppermost in my mind every day. I know farmers are worried about losing some of the the other corn if it doesn't Even the weather bureau misses occasionally. I remember mentioning them in this column a few weeks ago. They said that the period May 15 through June 15 we could expect much above normal rainfall. With the dry weather pond owners need to watch their ponds closely for oxygen shortage. Spring flow has decreased greatly this past week and ponds without a fresh supply of water may need aerating. If trouble develops a pump should be used to pump the water into the air and aerate it. The best thing to do is to maintain good fertility program.
